My heart goes out to this family. Unexpected losses are the worst because we have nothing to prepare us. I hope his parents can find a way to find peace with his memories. The hardest thing any parent can possibly go through is losing a child no matter the age or manner. It is also hard for siblings because it feels as though part of your childhood has died as well. However this is such a small and caring community, and you will find amazing support whether you ask for it or not. You all have so many people who are willing to help in anyway you need it. Kristian will be very missed.
