God put you and your mother in my life about 30 years ago. As I watched her struggle to do her best as a single mother. You were a happy boy and So inquisitive. I just recently seen you in a picture and I was totally thrown off guard by how much of a man you had become. I guess I still imagined when you were still that young boy. I will forever hold your youthful years in my heart and mind. May your family find some comfort in knowing you were cared about by so many people. Rest in peace.

Chris, even now, it's difficult to believe you are no longer here. But, it does help when I realized that you know the answers to everything and are now able to watch over the ones that love you the most. As we pray for you and lay you to rest today, I know that you continue to live on in the hearts, in the memories, and in the love of the ones that hurt the most. Rest In Peace Chris.

My Dearest Chris, I have tried to write something in this guest book 5 or 6 times now. I still can't believe you are gone my precious love. We have many memories together all the way back to when we were 14 & 16 yrs old. But the best memory of all is the day our son was born. Oh Chris...he loves you so much. I promise to take the very best care of him and you know that I will. Please watch over him in all that he does. I will need your help to guide him to be a good, strong, genuine and loving man. I will need your help especially since he is your son...lol. I promise to tell him all about you and all that you wanted him to know. I will make sure he has the life that you wanted him to have. As for me I thank you for everything. All the experiences we had together good and bad and what all you taught me. You will always remain in my heart and a piece of my heart will always belong to you. I am so glad that we were able to come together in the end and be best friends again like we use to be. It was good for Dakota but good for us too. I will still yell at you in my mind every time I have to mow the yard and every time Dakota does something that I have no idea what possessed him to do. I love you Chris and I know that we share a love that will live forever. Wait for me in heaven for I will see you again someday. XOXOXO

My Most precious baby nephew words can't describe how much am going to miss that infectious laugh and smile of yours. One thing I know for sure is that you knew how much I love you.. May you forever rest gently in the arms of Our Lord. Beyond grateful that our last words to each other were I LOVE YOU. Again I say, like I did every night before bed , May God bless you and keep you safe for me.. I'll be missing you daily and as I look into the stars I know you'll be looking back at me saying no worries Auntie I've got your back.. You better be waiting at heavens gates for me when the Lord decides it's time to take me home. Forever in my heart nephew, Love Auntie Johnna

Chris you will be missed so much. You were always their to help anyone that needed it and you taught me so much about computers. While I'm putting together a memorial disc to celebrate your life I remember hours we worked together on the computer. We had good times and bad times but I would not take back any of them. You rest in peace I know you will be with the Lord looking down on us. Love Aunt Myra & Uncle Tim
