I am unable to attend the services today for Brian but know that I am with you all in spirit. There are really no words to express my sincere sympathies to all of the many who are hurting, especially his family. I grew up with Brian and have many fond memories together. Brian and I shared the same homeroom class throughout junior high and high school and I always had a friend in him. To the family and numerous friends of Brian--you are not alone in your time of loss. Many are hurting and grieving. We may not always understand things, but we will by and by. I pray for strength, comfort and peace that only God can provide. My prayers are with you all today and in the days to come.
