nursing she became passionate in giving others the gift of music. She, and her son, Adam opened and ran a music store in Leesville, LA. The Leesville Music Center was the birthplace of the Vernon Parish Orchestra, some musical careers, and many pianists. She learned to play the piano in church and passionately shared her talent with many others. She was very loved and respected by her music students and will be greatly missed. Dianne, along with her husband, also owned and operated a small diner in Leesville, LA. She used this opportunity to show her love and compassion to many people and shared the plan of salvation with many customers. Everything Dianne did was a platform to share Jesus with others. Dianne had a personal and close intimate relationship with her Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. When Dianne learned her time on earth was very short, she cried. She cried not because she was afraid or without peace. "I'm crying because I get to see my Jesus very soon."

She will be greatly missed.
