Cypress Ranunculus lit a candle in honor of Dalton.

I am an author who stumbled upon this page while doing research for the book I am writing. My intent was simply to fact-check that the name I'd come up with wasn't currently being used by another creative or by a real-life person. Instead, I've found a very touching obituary and I feel the need to light a candle in honor of the REAL Dalton Withers, who I am sure was a wonderful person. Please accept my condolences and know that the memory of Mr. Withers will not be forgotten by me, even if I never got to know him myself. But a passing traveler, Cypress H. Ranunculus
